Green Puffle

These bouncing bundles of fun are the jokers of the puffle world! If you love to clown around and be silly, a green puffle could be your perfect sidekick!

Green puffles love flying too - if they're not hovering with their propeller cap, they are going up, up and away with penguins for a game of Jet Pack Adventure.

FACT: Green puffles laugh an average of 14.7 times a day!

THE LIVING SLED

Did you remember to lock the igloo...?

BWA HA HA! IT'S ALIVE!!!!

In the beginning there was wood. And some nails. These things, added together, became... a sled.

But it was just a sled. Good for sliding. Until one dark night, a scientist zapped it with volts from the Monster Maker 3000, bringing it to life!

Yep, it's ALIVE! And for some reason, it loves scaring penguins! Maybe it wants to EAT them, but we don't know how because it doesn't have a mouth.

Just one of the many unsolved mysteries of.. THE LIVING SLED!

There have been three Night of the Living Sled movies made so far. You can watch all of them on Club Penguin's youtube channel:
youtube.com/user/clubpenguin

DID YOU KNOW?

At last year's Halloween Party the Living Sled was in the Secret Lab!

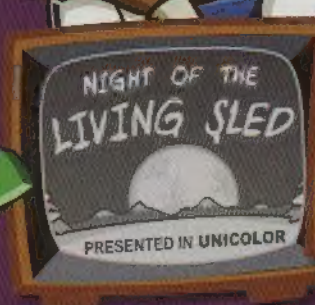

In Card-Jitsu there is a Living Sled power card.

DID YOU KNOW?

Night of the Living Sled is Gary's favourite movie!

Night of the Living Sled is making a comeback at The Stage, which is where you can buy this awesome costume!

How to draw... Puffles

Use this guide to create picture-perfect puffles every time!

Draw a circle, and a curved cross to show the angle of the face.

2

Next, draw on the outline of the eyes as shown.

3

Draw on a happy mouth, or choose your own expression.

4

Using the circle as a guide, draw the puffle's body shape and hair.

5

Next, draw the pupils.

Erase your guidelines and then add some colour.

Now try

drawing a whole range of different puffle faces!
